"Kitchen Cabinet" Flourishes Now Greater than in any Other Administration.

Washington, Oct. 26.-It was freely predicted when President Wilson took and he named the men. his office that he would have no "kichen eahinet."

Former Presidents for many years have had "kitchen cahinets," but Mr. Wilson was to be an excepiton. He was to run his office without any little circle of favorite advisers.

How completely this prediction has gone to smash is shown hy the fact that President Wlison now has a "kitchen cabinet" par excellence. It has forty times as much influence in shaping the executive acts and legislative policies of the President as his regular cabinet, consisints of the heads of the ten executive departments. The regular cabinet, in fact, came nearly being wiped off the map a time back, aitho it is now showing signs of returning animation. For about three months it was not called together-a most unprecedented situation-but the President would consuit from time to time with its individual members.

The head and front of the President's "kitchen cabinet" is Joe Tumuity, his private secretary. Tumu'.ty, a beardless young man in his thirties, has an oid and wise head on As shoulders, And, speaking by and iarge, he "cuts 'more ice" than any other Presidential private secretary that ever lived in this country, which is saying a good deal, as there have beth Presidents' secretaries, Lamont, Corteiyon, Loeb and others, who have been big political factors in their Tumuity is the practical politician of the White House firm. The President's mind is on big things and motto: "Leave that to Joe." Joe just loves politics and without a hand in the political game he would be like a fish out of water.

There nover was a president who embraced sugestions from his private secretary with that complete confidence with which President Wilson ail matters of patronage Joe comes pretty nearly forming the sistes for confirmation. If there is anything the President despises most of ali it is eutting the ple. Joe is never happler than when he is presiding at the pie counter, dispensing siices to good fellows here and there.

The "kitchen cabinet" revolves around Joe more than around the President. Many an important matter is "fixed up" at the sessions of the kitchen cabinet that later comes before the public in the form of a White House announcement. The personnel of the "kitchen cabinet" consists largely of four persons, it will be interesting and gradifying to newspaper men to know that a member of their profession is also a star member of the "kitchen cabinet."

This Interesting and versatile personage is Thomas J. Pence, formerly Washington correspondent of the Rai eigh News and Observer. Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniei's paper. Mr. Pence is an old-timer on Newspaper Row. He is a good-looking, likable bachelor. He is in charge of the Democratic national headquarters in the Hibbs Building and when he is not there he is vory likely to be found in Joe Tumuity's room at the White House. Along with Tom Pence and occupying an equal etation of prominence in the "kitchen cabinet" ls Senator Ofile M. James of Kentucky. The pull which that Kentucky olon, James, has at the White House is something fierce. James will be remembered for many things, including his masterful oratory at Democratic national conventions. He was the permanent presiding officer of the Baltimore convention last

"My work has been so easy it has been laughable," Bastain told the detectives when he finally broke down. "I have never been disturbed while at work. The people I did business with believed me to be absolutely what I represented myself. Jewelers bought my diamonds and the mint took my melted gold without question.

"I always have been a natural thief and I have found it easy to eteal things, but I am averse to killing or injuring. Inever had been in a position where I had to shoot until Friday night. My reluctance to use my revolver caused my capture."

Evidence to substantiate Eastain's alleged confession is said by the police to have been found in his handsomely fitted apartments where he lived with his young sister.'

The girl was unaware of his source of revenue, he said, and the police are inclined to believe him.

GRIPPED BY A LION

Livingstone's Fearful Ordeal and His Narrow Escape.

A BATTLE WITH A MANEATER.

The Wounded and Meddened Monster, In a Paroxyem of Dying Rege, Caught the Explorer In Hie Jawe and Shook Him as a Terrier Would a Rat.

David Llvingstone, the famous African explorer and missionary, once had a singular encounter with a wounded llon that almost put un end to the explorer's remarkable career before it had fuirly begun. But the story must be unfamiliar to many persons who have never read Dr. Livingstone's books. The adventure occurred whlie he was living among the Bakatias, not far from the present town of Mafeking. This account is from his own

The people of Mabotsa were tronbled by lions, which leaped into the caltie pens by night and destroyed their milk and draft animals. They even attacked the herds boldly by dnylight, and ulthough several expeditions against the wild beasts were planned the people had not the conrage to carry them through successfully.

It is well known that if one in a troop of ilons is killed the others leave that part of the country. I therefore went out with the people to help them destroy one of the maranders. We found the animals on a small bill covered with trees. The men formed round it in a circle and gradually elosed up. Being below on the plain with a native schoolmaster named Mabalwe, i saw one of the llons sitting on a piece of rock. Mabalwe fired at him, and the ball hit the rock. The lion bit at the spot as a dog does at n stick or stone thrown at him, and then, leaping away, broke through the circle and escaped. The Bakatlas ought to have speared him in his attempt to get out, but they were afraid.

When the circle was reformed we saw two other llons in it, but dared not fire lest we should shoot some of the people. The beasts burst through the line, and as it was evident the men could not face their foes we turned back toward the vilinge.

In going round the end of the hill I saw a lion sitting on a piece of rock, about thirty yards off, with a little bush in front of him. I took good nim at him through the bush and fired both

The men called out, "He is shot, he is shot!" Others cried, "Let us go to

I saw the iion's tall erect in anger and said, "Stop a little till I load again!" I was in the act of ramming down the bullets when I heard a shout, and, looking half round, i saw the lion in the act of springing at me. He caught me hy the shoulder, and we both came to the ground together. Growling horribly, he shook me as a terrier dog does a rat. The shock produced a stupor like that felt by a mouse in the grip of the cat. It caused a sort of dreaminess, in which there was no sense of pain or feeling of terror although I was quite conscious of what was happening. This placidity is probably produced in all animals killed by the carnivora, and, if so, it is a merciful provision of the Creator for lessening the pain of death.

As he had one paw on the back of my head, I turned round to relieve myself of the weight and saw his eyes directed to Mabulwe, who was alming at him from a distance of ten or fifteen yards. The gun missed fire in both harrels. The animal immediately left me to attack him and bit his thigh. Another man, whose life i had saved after he had been tossed by a buffulo, tried to spear the lion, upon which he turned from Mabaiwe, and selzed this fresh foe by the shoulder. At that moment the bullets the beast had received took effect, and he fell down dead. The whole was the work of a few moments and must have been his naroxysm of dying rage. In order to take out the charm from him the Bukatlas on the following day made a huge bonfire over the carcuss. which was declared to be the largest

Besides erunching the bone into spillnters, eleven of his teeth had penetrnted the upper part of my arm. The hite of a lion resembles a gunshot wound. It is generally followed by a great deal of slonghing and discharge. and ever afterward pains are felt periodically in the part. i had on a tartan jacket, which I believe wiped off the virus from the teeth that pierced the flesh, for my two companions in the affray have both suffered from the usual pains, while i have escaped with only the inconvenience of a false joint in my limb,

AN OLD INDIAN LEGEND.

The Incidents That Led Up to the Naming of Poughkeepsie.

During the days when the indians etlli held sway on the banks of the Hndson there was a flerce battle between the Delaware and the Pequot tribes. The former won, and among their cuptives was a handsome young Pequot brave. He was offered his life if he would swear alleglance to the Delawares and be branded with their tribal mark-the turtle. He refused, and preparations were then made to kill him. As his enemies were on the point of doing this a young Indian girl broke into the circle and begged for his life. She had at one time been a Pequot, but had been enjoured by the Delawares and forced to Join their tribe. Her attends were so touching that the warriors were debuting the matter when the party was attacked by stlii another enemy, the Huron Indians. In the exchement the girl cut her lover's bonds, but the two found themselves in the mildst of a flerce battle and eventually became separated The young warrior escaped, but the giri was captured by a Huron chief.

Determined to rescue her at my cost. the Pequot brave disgulsed himself as a medicine mun and entered the camp of the Ilurons. By some pretext he gained udmlsslon to the tent where the girl was kept prisoner, and late at night they managed to escape in the darkness. Their flight was soon discovered and pursuit began, but the young couple reached the river far enough in advance of their pursuers to embark in a canoe and push off from shore. They were still followed, but the warrior was young and strong and succeeded in getting his little craft safely into a cove at the junction of the great river and n little stream entering into it between two high, protecting banks, where they hid, and later found a friendly tribe.

Refolding that the place bad been a "safe harbor" for the girl and her lov er in time of perll, it was so designated in the Pequot tongue, the indian equivalent being "Apa-keep-sinck." Today. after having filtered through the Dutch and English tongues, it is known as Poughkeepsie.—Ladies' Home Journai.

CURIOUS HERMIT CRABS.

They Keep Housemelds, and Also Use Spongee For Protection,

It has been said that crabs are as artful as "a barrow load of monkeys." and no one who has read Professor Edward Step's "Messmates; A Book of Strange Companiousbips In Nature," will deny that there is considerable truth in the remark. Amazing indeed are some of the revelations which the professor makes regarding crabs.

He relates, for instance, how the common hermit crab actually keeps n honsemald to clean out his bouse. When he first starts life this particular apecies of crab hunts for some large shellfish's shell in which he can live at ease, rent free. He usually chooses a large whelk shell and introduces a large seaworm, belonging to what is known as the "nerels" family and which grows to a length of six or elgbt inches, to keep the interior of the shell clean. The crab feeds heartlly on sea creatures that wander carelessly into the shell and throws the in floor. The nerels worm promptly con sumes these remains and keeps the sbell as clean as a new pin.

The artfulness of this crab, too, is strikingly libistrated by the ingenious manner in which he protects himself against the large fish which look upon him as an excellent article of food. Sometimea he induces a sponge to grow on his shell. Sponges in a living condition give out a strong odor, which is distinctly unpleasant to fish, and even a dogfish will not attack n crab protected in this manner.

Two Kinds of Snobs.

An interesting sense history is that of the word such, a term of obscure origin, in its earliest use, in 1871, mean ing a shoemaker or cobbler. Now there is a distinction between the English and the American use of snot-a distinction due to the infinence of aris tocratic us compared with democratic traditions. An English snob is a mun who falls short of the perfect urlsto crat through a taint of democratic val garity. An American snob is a man who fails short of the perfect demo cret through a talut of aristocratic exclusiveness.-New York Post.

Consident Travel Before Reliroade. So prodigiously good was the eating and drinking on board these singgish but most comfortable canalboats that there are legends extant of an English traveler who, coming to Belgium for a week and traveling in one of these vessels, was so delighted with the fare there that he went backward and forward from Ghent to Bruges all the rest of his life.-From Timbs' "English Eccentrics."

Setting Him Right. "I suppose the titled personage you say you are going to marry is mentioned in the Almanach de Gotba?" said

"No, ludeed." retorted the lovely actrens. "Of course he ain't in no almanac. Do you think he's a joke?"-Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Husband--You can put this down as settled-if I ever get out of it you will never catch me in matrimony again. Wife-You won't if you depend on me for reference.-Philadelphia Ledger.

The man of grit carries in his very presence a power which controls and commands.-Old Saying.

THEY PUZZLE GREAT MINDS.

Simple Worde Too Profound For Humen Understanding.

Q.-Can there be two kinds of infinities or two influite spaces?

A.-The writer of this question must decide. The nearest star is distant twenty-five trillion mlies. Write a row of units 111111... to the star and let each unit represent one mile; then the illstunce represented by a line of 1's. twenty-five trillion miles long, submerges all human powers of Imagination. But write a row of 2222222, twenty-five trillion miles long; then the number of mlies represented would be twice as great. Then write a row of 909999... equally long, and the distance expressed would be nine times as great as that represented by the 1's.

But no human can think of the distance expressed by the 1's. Let the first row of figures extend twenty-live trillion or fifty or a thousand trillion miles to the east; then a row could be extended toward the west. Many milllons of years would be required to write the long rows. Suppose that you write 9's both ways during a thousand million years each. Then the distance in miles would be thinner than a spider's thread when compared to an infinite distance.

There are possibly fifty persons now living able to think one new thought. They are the mighty of the earth, and are all transcendent mathematicians. think of infinity or eternity. They all know better. Only the superficial strive to think of the two words, so my questioner must answer his own question, for I cannot even hope to secure a glimpse, lasting a thousandth part of one second, of the meaning of one of the following list of words: Mind, space, time, duration, infinity. eternity, beginning, end, space and electrons.-Edgar Lucien Larkin in New York American.

FOUR SOULS EACH.

Curlous Beliefe of the Savagee of West

West African religion is particularly generous to the human beings, to each of whom it allots several souls, four being the usual number. Only one is immortal, however. The others, though troublesome enough during the owner's life, cease to be at the same time as the body. They are the shadow soul, the dream soul and the bush soul.

One soul seems more than many of us can manage, but the poor African has a bad time between the four of them. He never knows when some enemy may plnnge a knife into his shadow, thus causing him to sicken and die, or when his bush soul, which takes the form of an animal, may rush into danger and get hurt, and, as for his dream soul, that is particularly troublesome, as it wanders from his body during sleep and runs the risk of being caught by witch traps. When this happens its place is often taken by a nasty stranger spirit called a "sisa," which seems to have no other object but to cause misfortune end sickness to the being who forms its temporary habitation.

Most of the tribes have the idea of an underworld after death, neither heaven nor hell, but much like the exlsting world, only dimmer. Among the Tschwi tribes this idea is well defined. Their shadow world has a namesrahmandayl-and they even know the way to the entrauce, which is across the Volta river. This place has its markets, its town and its interests, but everything is felt in a more indistinct

Later on it became usual for the person in whose favor the verdict was given to offer the jury n dinner and sometimes a gainea or so for their trouble. This practice led to so much phase that It was found necessary to pass a law prohibiting it .iondon Graphle.

"By ail means let us have a look at the officeholders' books in this county, regardless of the objection of The Hartford Republican."--Hartford Herald

Now The Hartford Republican has not the slightest objection to any man, woman or child, white or black, in Ohio county having a look at the books. The Editor of the Herald knows also that every book or public document kept by every official in many hours with the corpse, making Ohlo county is and always has been open to the inspection of any and everyone. The old threadbare worn out cry raised by the Hartford Herald about having a look at the books is silly in the extreme. He urged that physisians be stationed in the indian settiements to check the spread of contagious diseases. P. J. Hnrley, national attorney for the Chootaw Nation, one of the five ribes, denounced the land interests that were defeating the efforts to have Congress distribute $10,000,000 ful in feeding his stock if he wants belonging to the Choctaws and Chiekasaws and derived from the sale of their lands. The fal'ure to distribute these moneys, he asserted, was due to attorneys hired by persons who hoped to benefit by proving citzeuship in the Choctaw and Chiekasaw nations if the government should reopen the tribal rolls. Such I find it. attizenship was worth from $500 to $8000, he said, and if the rolls were reopened some attornoys would make thousands of dollars because they have taken claimants' cases on contingent fees of from 25 to 50 per cent.

Structural steelworkers run many ping their gonts," they call it. Only the other day one of them who had pever known fear was standing on the outer edge of a lofty steel framework and chanced to look down luto the street. He saw a trolley car run over a aewsboy. Instantly his mind was ltary. swamped with thoughts of death. He stretched himself that on the beam and crawled to an Island of phinking. When a man once does that on top of a skyseraper he has finished his high work.

"They never come back," said an old foreman. "It's a pity, too, for they can never get a quarter the pay ut aaother job that they did at this before they looked down and saw death."

Much of the world's work is done by men who have to keep their nerve in the face of peril. Sometimes a man run of daager. Primarily the cause may be fatigue or bad liver or bad nerves, but when it is all over he decides he has had enough and seeks another vocation.

In the places where high explosives are manufactured the men are subjected to a constaat nervous strain. They get used to it, like everything else, but when an accident comes there is sure to be some one among the survivors who drops out of the ranks of the workers.

In a plant where more dynamite, nitroglycerin, guneotton and other pentup destruction are made than anywhere else in the world nearly n thousand lives depend more or less on a thermometer.

In oue step in the manufacture of nitroglyeerin it is a quivering, anilen suld in a big caldron brilliantly lighted by electricity. Glycerin is continually sprayed on the tous of heated acids within. As it mixes the glyceriu seizes the avallable nitrogen from the acids, and the mass becomes nitroglycerin. Round the caldron a man moves swiftly, noiselessly, dividing his attention between the contents and n thermometer that extends down into the hot acids. The temperature of the mass must not rise above 80 degrees.

Glycerin has many vagarlea thut have been never been explained. If, send more cool solution through the and fit rudder, sail and seata or pipea that coll anakewise round the thwarts. nt caldron. If the mercury in the tube continues to rise he shuts off the inflow of glycerin. If this does not have the desired effect he turns on compressed air, so as to throw the mass lato violent agitation. If this fails he has only one more eard to play. He opens a valve and emptles the charge into the "drowning tauk." Then be makes a dash for safety.

Only a few mea who have ever been immediately exposed to explosions have lived to tell about them afterward. Those who have escaped and have continued in their bazardons employment are thereafter known only by their first names. There are only a few of these. The other survivors have sought other work where the risks are less. Sald one of them:

"You can't trust the stuff any more than you could a sleeping cohm. I was nt work one day around the mixing tank and things were going as usual when I suddenly noticed that the mercury in the thermometer was creeping un toward 80. Onick us n flash I saw that something had gone wrong, and, one after another, I turned on the cold, shut off the glycerin and turned on the air. No one ever watched anything more anxiously than I did that thermometer. But the merenry kept on climbing. Then I made a grab for the onick opening valve so as to drowa the stuff. One of the officers of the company was in the room. I had yelled at him to run. But he stood there as cool as a cucumber, saying that he didn't think there was much danger. As soop as I opened the valve to let the stuff off I made a jump through the window. There were plenty of emergency doors, but I didn't want to take an extra step. The boss went out by a door. The fraction of a second that I saved by taking the window probably added a good many years to my life. I landed on the ground and was running with all my might when I was lifted off my feet and harled at least 100 yards. I escaped with a broken leg. The boss, who had run lu the opposite direction, was picked up seed. There was hardly a mark on

TWISTING THE LANGUAGE.

English Has Received Soms Severa Jolts In the Philippines.

linby talk is a highly developed laacan housewives talk to their Filipina house boys. But it usually conveys the meaning when accompanied by expressive gestures. At best, however, the performance of the coammind speaks well for native instultion.

Spanish construction of English words is unother twist that our poor binguage gets in the Philippines. "No got" in the island is the most commonly used expression for "I haven't any," Similarly "no can do" means "I can't," and "no want" means "I don't want it." Not, only between American and Ellipino, but among Americans them-seives, this twisted construction has largely supplanted the legitimate one.

With the soldler anything that bechances of losing their nerve-"drop- longed pocularly to the Philippines was described as "bumboo." Now all colonials use the term. The "bamboo fleet" is the one assigned to Phillippine waters, and the "bamboo government" is the Philippine elvil government in distinction from the United States mil-

Among other "soldlerisms" (if I may be permitted this contribution to the new language) were certain pure Malay words. The list is continually growing, and now there are dozens of Tagalog and Moro expressions in con stant use among the Americans. For example, there are the Tugalog words "bugulo," meaning "storm;" carabao," meaning un animal; "palay," meaning "rice," and "tao," meaning "man." Moro terms in common use are "amok," meaning "wild;" "dato," meaning "chief;" "kris," meaning a will not go to pieces until after a long wavy edged knife, and "sarong," meaning a garmeat.-Review of Reviews.

BOATS GROW ON TREES.

West India 1 Boya Can Gst All of Then They Want.

When a West Indian boy wants a toy boat all he has to do is to visit a eocoanut tree. These trees bear grent bunches of unts among their drooping green leaves, and when the bunch first sprouts out in the form of a big bud it is inclosed within a hard. tough, woody ease or spathe two or three feet long, eight or tea laches lu dialacter and tupering to a point a: oue end and to a slender atern at the other. In fact, it looks very much like a huge wooden cigar.

As the huds and flowers develop the apathe splita open, and the flower hunch continues to grow out beyond it until the nuts hegins to ripen. By this time the spathes have become dry and hard and bresk off and drop to the ground of their own accord.

It is the spathes or hud coverings that the West Indian boys use for toy boats, and, while the dry mil fallen ones will answer, better boats are made from the more flexible and partly green sputies still clinging to the flower s'm:

The spathe as gathered from the tree through one of them, the temperature all that is necessary to transform it to is almost in the shape of a boat, and rises toward the danger point the first a very seaworthy and fast salling toy thing the man on watch does is to eanoe is to sew the open end together

> When this is done the boat is almost an exact model of the hig dugout eanoes that the boya' fathers use in fishing. In fact, these dugonts were probably copied from one of the tree grown boats. - From "Harper'a Book For Young Naturalists."

A Perpetual Error.

A printer's error lu perpetulty! How many know that when joining in the "Te Denm" they are carrying on, in one phrase of that song of praise, an ancient blunder? "Make them to be numbered with thy saints;" so it runs. And so when manuscript copies gave place to printed books was it rendered in the medieval Latin then in use, "numerarl"-"to be numbered," as we say In English. Transpose the first and third letters and you get "munerarl," "to be rewarded," which is what all prayer books would be printing today and congregations singing were it not for that difteenth century printer's error .- London Tatler,

There are few countries that have soldlers in their ranks-either in disgulse or openly accepted despite their sex. No Title Page in Early Books.

The idea of a title page did not occur to the early printers. "The books started straight off with 'inelpit' or Here heginacth, without author's or ean sharpen it, but rather sluggish publisher's name. This causes anch difficulty in attributing earlier works to the proper sources." The idea of a title page with names seems first to have occurred to a Cologne printer named Therhoernen about 1470, but it was not generally adopted natil fifty years later. The early pnactuation was very simple, coasisting of an oblique line and a full stop. One of the first books to introduce the colon and aotea of interrogation and exclamation was a "Lactantlus" printed at a monastery near Roase in 1465 .- Imprint.

London's Gunpowder Allsy.

The city coroner, who commented upon the "funny" name of Gnapowder alley (off Shoe lane) and coafessed that he had never heard of it, may nevertheless have heard of the poet Lovelace, who died in the alley two years before the restoration. The lodging in which be died was a miserable one, but probably seemed to the poor poet released from prison a glorious palace, for he was philosopher enough niready to have written that 'stone walls do not a prison make." In this alley also lived the notorious astrologer, Lilly, the Sidrophel of "Hudibras."-London Chronicle.

What Roses Are.

You have noticed, to be sure, that rose leaves are like the foliage of apple trees. They are of one family. Roses are the souls of apples. Flowers are never just accidents. They are all related to something else. As a little a. m. wild rose is like a dear haby, so a hig apple tree is like a grownup person. Some roses have been turned in one direction for their fragmace and beauty. Others have been brought up into apple trees for the fruits they bear. RESCUED FROM THE CURSE OF GOD

God's Curse Not What We Supposed, Says Pastor Russell.

The Rescue Diffars Aleo-The Curse Foretold in the Bible.

Oct. 26. - We report one of l'astor ltusseii's sermous of today from the text. "There shall be no more curse.'

-Revelation 22:3. that the shackles of superstition are breaking from our minds. Our forefathers, taught that to doubt the creeds was to be damned, feared to think for themselves. Sutan helped, not only to make our creeds, but to manacle us to them by direfui threats. Well may we praise God for the dawning light of the New Day.

Freedom to think transcends ali physical liberties, said the l'astor. The liberty wherewith Christ makes free" Is God's great boon to man. in proportion as it has been received there is joy; otherwise discontent, pain.

God's curse, according to the creeds, consigns all mankind to eternal torture, except as any should be so fortunate as to hear of the Savior and be favorably environed for saintship. In irrational dread, we questioned uot the authority of those who made the creeds. it was asserted that the creeds were a condensed statement of Billie teaching, prepared by very holy and learned men; and that for any to attempt to understand the Bible without the aid of the especially ordained and apostolic bishops would be dangerous.

But education has become general. Contradiction amongst the apostolic bishops has demonstrated that they are failible-that none of them were inspired, as were the twelve "Apostles of the Lamb."

Back to the Bibla.

The Pastor asserted that Satum, percelving the tendency to return to the Bible, has invaded our institutions of learning. Having captured nearly all headaches will disappear. For sie the professors, he has poisoned their by all dealers . miuds with Higher Criticism and Evointion. By this master stroke he has accomplished in these last thirty years ten thousand times more than Voltaire and ingersoll ever hoped.

Nevertheless, the Divine arrangement will not be frustrated, nithough worldly wisdom ins captured the worldly-wise, as foretold. (isniah 29:14.) Liberty of mind has brought opportunity for Scripture study without creed spectacles. And light from God's Word is going forth to the ends of the earth as never before.

The Curee of God.

The Pastor then demonstrated from the Scriptures that God's curse is not eternal torture, from which only a hundful would be rescued by the Savior; but that "the wages of sin is death." Capital punishment with the Aimighty is precisely what it is with His most intelligent creatures.

Under the heavy curse of death our ruce has gone down for six thousand years. Our mental, moral and physical nowers have grown weaker nutil now the average length of life is only thirly-six years; whereas Adam fived nine hundred and thirty years. All of life's experiences demonstrate that the curse s severe, nithough just.

if fallen, imperfect men realize that rnelty is unjust and improper, and that death should be the capital punshment of crime, can our great Creator be less merciful? To punish ereatures depraved from birth with everlasting torture, because they had not mastered their luborn evil tendencies. would be a worse crime than theirs. To any judicial mind it unst be evident that God could not justly panish ills creatures with any severer punshuent than annihilation.

The l'astor asserted that his text contradicts eternal terment theories, und mentioned a similar contradiction In Hosea 13:14, where the Lord declares that Sheol shall be destroyed.

The Context Wasley's Favorita. Pastor Russell then contrasted the teachings of Wesley and Calviu. Westley's loving heart rebelled against the thought that the non-elect should have been predestived to eternal torment. He felt it an aspersion against the Divlue character.

The blessed decluration. "Whoso ever will, let him take the water of life freely." appealed strongly to Wesley. He trusted that the time would come when the Church would conquer the world with the Gospei Message, when our context would be fulfilled.

We perceive now that both Calvin and Wesley were right. Only the Elect are to be saved during this Gospei Age, but eventually Free Grace will prevail. The connecting links are furnished in the Scripture telling us that pefore Messinh's Kingdom can be esabilshed, the Church must be glorified. The Mection of the Church ended. Free Grace will begin.

UNITY DREAM CHURCH OF CHRIST

Rev. Huckel Defines Congregationalist Position.

Greed, Lust, Worldliness and Atheism of Force are to be Conquerd.

Kansas Cilty, Mo., Oct. 28.-The dream of the Congregational Church is the unity of the Church of Jesus Christ, Rev. Oilver Huckel of Baltlmore thus defined the church's posltion in an address this afternoon in cornection with the national council of the church. Prominent jeaders occupied puipits today and spoke on various subjects. Rev. Charies E. Jefferren of New York City deciared America has four dragons to meet an conquer, the first of which is greed.

"Mothers of the nation should devote less time to social diversion and more to the training of their sons and daughters." ded ared Moderator Charles R. Brown, dean of the Yaie Divinity School.

Rev. Cari S. Patton of Columbus. Ohio, deplored the tendency of ministers to discuss from the puipit and in the press the alleged decadence of the church.

Rev. Ernest B. Aiien of Toiedo asked a campaign for bringing young boys, who are kept from attending public school through poverty or misfortune, into the Sunday schools.

Secretary Henry A. Atkluson of Chicago addressed a joint meeting of church jeaders and the industriaj council at Labor Temple, defining the church's attitude toward labor.

"The wisest method of church un-123," sald Dr. Huckei, "is consofidation-an organic unity on terms of equality with the preservation of the vatuable points in each community, here, was killed by a train on his allewing all desired diversity in worskip and work. "We have not nearly enough men, with sound health of nositive and vigorous build," he declared; "men with warm sympathies; men with nights with Mrs. Belindia Patton. softicient mental capacity to take "raining; men with common sense; men of genuine Christian character. Dr. Patton criticized ministers who George Wedding. had made utterances in the press and pulpit contrasting the present day church conditions with those of 30 years ago.

"Try as I will I cannot get up any anxiety about the church," said he. "If business men gave interviews to the newspapers about the existence of a bad outlook for business, and urgand men to hold on to their money, It would create a panic. So it is with the church. When the minister cannot see the churches in an optimisdie light, now can he expect to have followers?"
